

THE BEST Photoplay Department in WASHINGTON

Washington Woman to Become Corrector of Details for Film Scenes.

A new business has been developed by the motion picture industry, and it is to see that everything about the setting of a picture, the department of the actors, the costumes, etc., are in keeping with the scene that is supposed to be filmed.

No more will the film critic be sure he is watching a scene in a rich man's home by the marble statues or the evening clothes of the women. No more will the spectator be made to feel perfectly sure the hero is still an army officer because he wears his sword and spurs when he is called. No more will the uniforms of army or navy captains be combinations of the ornate decorations of major generals, crown prince and bell boy. All this sort of thing is to be abolished. Quiet elegance will dominate the rich man's home in the film play, the marble statues will be abolished. The army officer will be permitted to appear in regular clothes and look like a human being and the uniforms when they are worn will be exactly as the regulations for such things provide.

The film directors were a long time learning it—but at last they realize that it is an economical way to put on a film scene correctly as it is in reality. Likewise they have awakened to the fact that incorrect details are an insult to the intelligence of the patrons of the film. For instance, a film was exhibited here a short time ago in which one of the characters, an officer of the army, was dressed in the dress coat of an enlisted soldier, the captain's insignia on the shoulder straps being the only indication of his rank.

The uniform did not fit the actor, and he wore it most of the time. In a full dress this officer and gentleman appeared in a coat that was originally a policeman's overcoat, but had added to it a gold bullion epaulet and a major general's sash. All of this in a film produced by one of the most important companies in the business which represented an investment of thousands of dollars.

The pioneer in the effort to correct details is, by the way, a Washingtonian, Mrs. Robert H. Haines, the wife of the well-known actor, Mrs. Haines was engaged by the Equitable company for a film called "Human Cargo" and during the course of the making of the pictures she made many suggestions as to the setting of scenes, the costumes of the actors, etc. She declared the reason she had never entered the film before was because of the utter disregard of the details by the great majority of directors which led her to believe that the directors were not endowed with ordinary intelligence. Mrs. Haines was engaged by the Equitable to look after the details in films in the future.

"Motion picture directors would cause themselves much less anguish if they could only have a woman with good taste, social experience, tact and breeding to assist them in their pictures," says Mrs. Haines. "Pictures which offend good taste and which have difficulty in passing the censorship board would probably be made in far less quantity if every director could rely on the judgment of a sane, well-balanced woman with artistic sense and clarity of mind to assist him. After all, the home and social life play the greater share of importance in pictures."

"The home, of course, is the realm of woman, and with that and with the social conventions she is more familiar than man. I do not believe that many women would be capable to direct a picture, but on the other hand neither is a man able to feel the little things, nor does he possess the intuition that woman does. No woman is fitted for the responsibility of a position of this kind unless she has met every kind of life. Aside from the acting field in motion pictures the realm of motion pictures has been practically unopened to women. I think the social moment will have a big place in the future."

Evidence Swallowed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—"Show me the evidence," said Recorder William J. Cain, of Bayonne, N. J., when Joseph Baurer charged that he had been struck in the mouth by Frank Bandorowitz and three of his teeth knocked out. "I can't show you," I swallowed them," replied Baurer. The court saw where the teeth had been and fined Bandorowitz $25.

TONY BETRAYS ORIGIN OF MILADY'S NEW HAT

Washington Damsels Buy Men's Straw Headgear and Then Have Them Blacked.

Have you noticed these little, stiff headstall black hats that a few of Washington's most chic damsels are wearing? Not the broad-brimmed, high-crowned variety, that can be found in any shop, but small, mannish, tailored looking affairs.

And have you gone through the stores to try to find one? If so, you have been unsuccessful. For the hat is so exclusive that not even the most fashionable milliners of F streets and Connecticut avenue have them.

Fifth avenue is stamped, indelibly even if invisibly, all over the hats—so simple, so unostentatious, therefore, so expensive.

But it remained for a mere man to discover the secret of their origin—and a small, snub-beiged, ungrammatical man at that.

It was Tony, the bootblack, who made the discovery. Let Tony continue the tale, as he puts a lustrous polish on your boots:

"You've seen these little black hats, that some ladies are wearin'? Yes? Yo' wife, she been wantin' one? 'Shucks, boss, they easy to get. Bef you know."

"I tell you, boss. It was these way. 'Beautiful lady, she was first, two, three week ago. She come in here, carryin' bundle."

"She look 'round careful-lak. Wouldn't talk till she seee noone here. I frightened, boss. This some Blackie Hand lady, I think. I start to run."

"Lady she say, 'Wait, an' put her hand down in bundle. I ver' moosh frightened, boss, I think sure she goin' after de bomb."

"Then she bring out hat—jus' ordinary, stiff, man hat—the kin' you see in 'after de bomb'—"

"Tony, she say, 'You black thesea for me. How moosh'."

"That all, boss. Course, you can't buy that hat. But you go 'round and get man hat, an' bring it here, an' I fix it. I get you in strong wit' da wife, hey?"

Rheumatism Easily Relieved By Cleansing the Blood

S. S. S. Gives Quick Relief
by Toning Up the Blood

Yes, but how? A natural question. The answer is that you must cleanse your blood by stimulating it to healthy, vigorous action, so that it will throw off the germs and impurities that cause Rheumatism. The action of the wonderful blood purifier, S. S. S., is to practically renew the life-blood, give it vigor, stimulate the flow, making it throw off the germs and the poison impurities. The excruciating pains of Rheumatism, whether it is the shooting, stabbing Sciatica, the gripping agony of muscular Rheumatism, or aching arms and legs that break up sleep, will be entirely relieved by S. S. S. Don't use nostrums and drugs. Take the blood bath—Nature's blood tonic, S. S. S. Get it at any drugist, but insist upon S. S. S. Let us tell you about blood diseases. Send for booklet, "What the Mirror Tells," or if you are a peculiar case, write S. S. S. Co., Atlanta, Ga., but begin treatment at once.

SPIRIT OF FAIR PLAY RELIED ON BY ALBERT

German Privy Councillor Says
Chief Offense Was in Not Destroying Letters.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Dr. Heinrich P. Albert, Imperial German privy councillor and connected with the German embassy in this country, has replied to the criticisms of the German propaganda, the correspondence of which was published in the World, in part.

"It is inevitable that all sorts of wild and irresponsible offers, proposals and suggestions should be addressed from every conceivable quarter to one holding the official position in which I am placed as an accredited agent of one of the great nations engaged in this unfortunate world-wide war. That is the character of most of the documents that were contained in the portfolio that was abstracted from us."

"I have, however, lived here long enough to have learned that, although every people of this world is disposed to jump to hasty conclusions on insufficient evidence, there is too much of the spirit of fair play among them to permit of your forming your final judgments on such manifestly false and slender premises."

While Germany and Austria-Hungary had hoped that there would be such an embargo, and have been expecting that the action of Great Britain in seizing control of the sea along neutral countries and in destroying neutral commerce in violation of international law would result in prompt reprisals of this character, we have still considered it our right and duty, while Great Britain continues its piracy on the high seas, to endeavor to protect ourselves against this course of international brigandage by stopping the exportation of war materials to the allies wherever it can be accomplished, whether by our purchase of factories or of war materials, even though we are not in a position at this time to make further use of them in our own defense.

I am unable to understand on what theory our action in this direction should be the subject of criticism. If he had the means and the opportunity we would buy every munitions factory in the United States, if in that way we could keep munitions from the enemy.

"Whilst it is true that all sorts of offers and proposals were and are being constantly made to me upon every conceivable subject by people unknown to us, whom we never took the trouble to answer or investigate, and to whose proposals we paid not the slightest attention, no such transaction as has been sought to be adduced from this one-sided correspondence that has been printed ever took place."

"Our only offense, on the face of these letters, is that of having tucked away the letters instead of consigning them to the waste basket.

"For months past the newspapers have been filled with inspired romances of our attempts to foment labor troubles, which I am glad of the opportunity to set at rest."

"It is quite on a par with the baseless and ridiculous assertion that 'the large transactions of Germany' suggest a weekly expenditure of $2,000,000. These sensational falsehoods follow one another so thick and fast that it is impossible to deny them if one were disposed to do so."

How Heat Affects the Vital Organs

Hot Weather Conduces to Chronic Constipation
and Diarrhea

A disposition to confine one's diet to cold food and to indulge freely in iced drinks, is one reason why constipation and diarrhea is so prevalent in summer, and there is no season when bowel disturbances should be more carefully avoided, as much serious disease is directly traceable to these conditions.

To regulate the bowels and quickly relieve even an aggravated case of constipation, the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is highly recommended by many physicians, and all those who have used it. Unlike cathartics and violent purgatives, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin acts gently on stomach, liver and bowels, without griping or other discomfort and brings relief in an easy, natural manner. Mild, pleasant to the taste, and inexpensive, it is the ideal family laxative. By cleansing the bowel tract and eliminnating the foreign matter and poisons that irritate and inflame, it will quickly check an attack of diarrhea and restore normal conditions.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has been the standard remedy in countless homes for more than thirty years, and is sold in drug stores everywhere for fifty cents a bottle. A free trial can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 453 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.
